

Handout / Introduction

ICC Online Result-Service

This is a basic guideline for the Jury of ICC climbing competitions on how to operate the new Online Result-Service. This service was put in place to provide an instant and up to date result / ranking of a current competition on the ICC website. (And to reduce the amount of effort and time needed to put results into the website / database by passing emails / faxes around and typing single results in.)

You as a judge can use this Result-Service via any given internet connection. The standard should be a connection 'on site' at the competition, but it will work with your normal access as well - assuming that you have access rights to operate the system for that particular competition.

For the purpose of training and testing, you always have access to a competition format called 'XYZ' which we will use furthermore in this handout.

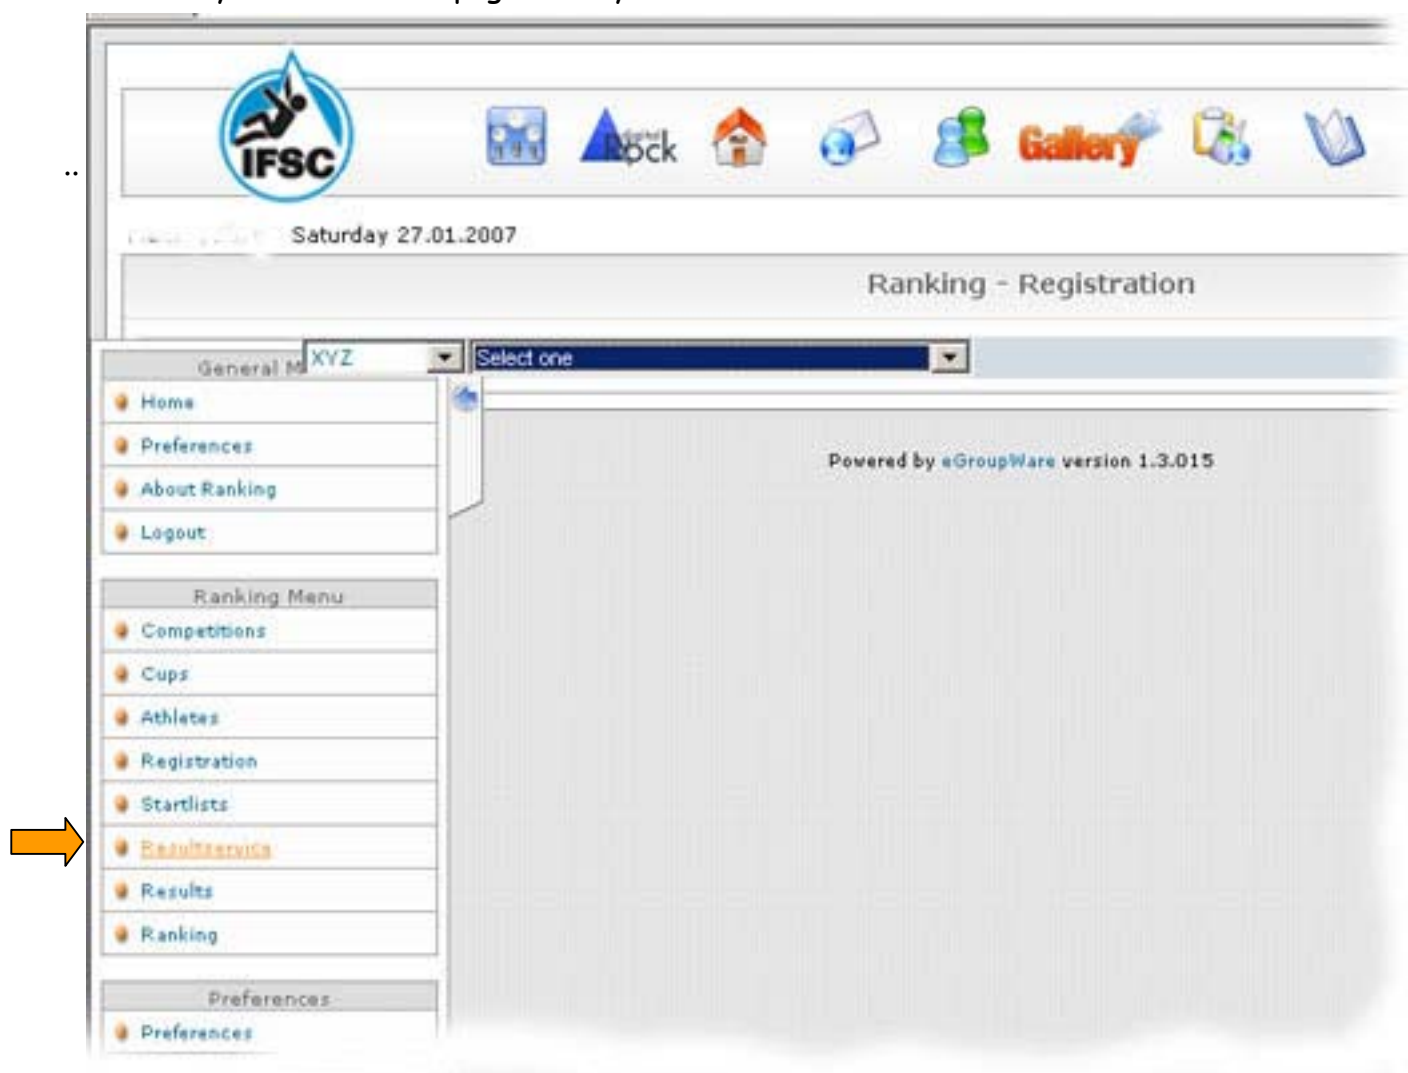

N.B.: For the time being, this system only works properly with Mozilla Firefox or Internet Explorer 7.0. Please download and install this browser from <http://www.mozilla-europe.org/en/products/firefox/>

First you login to your personalised IFSC website

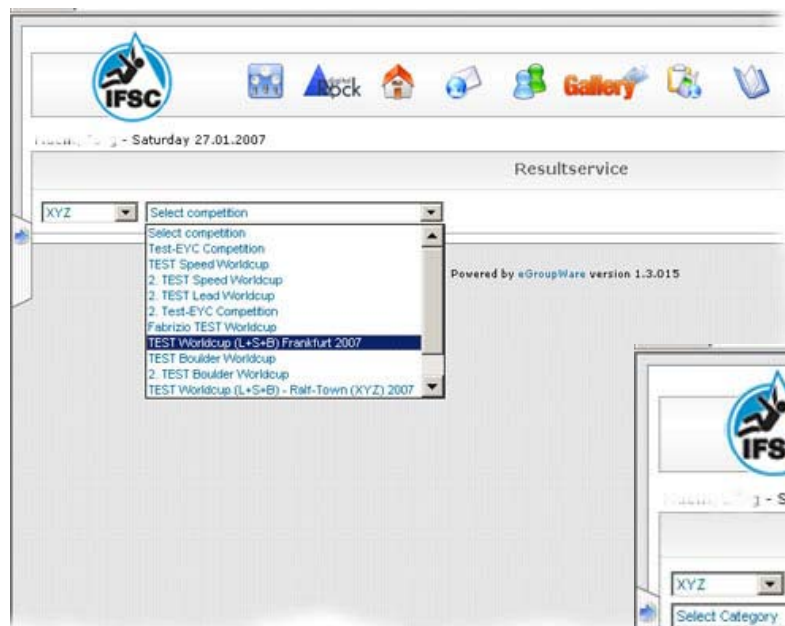

<http://www.ifsc-climbing.org/egroupware/login.php>

(for the time being) by typing your username and password.

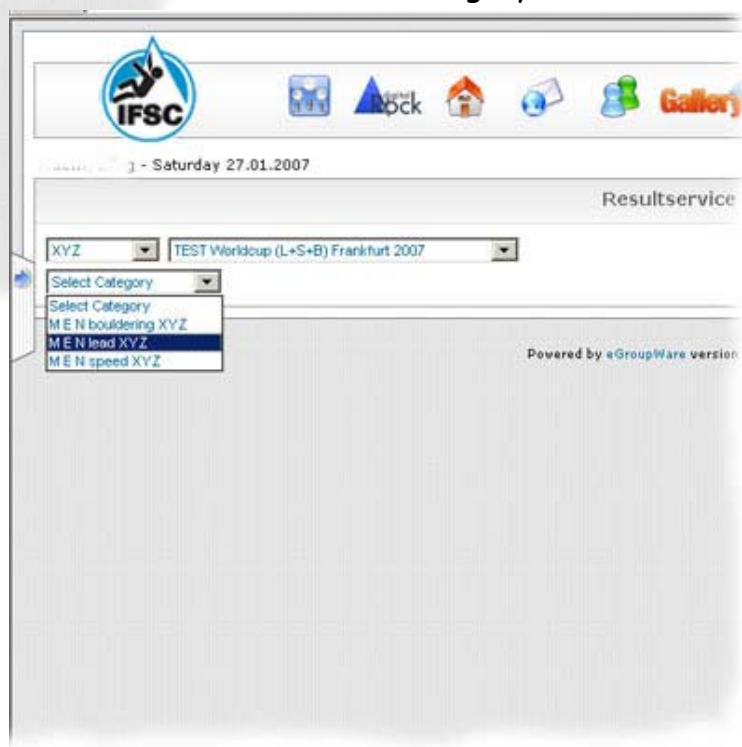

This leads you to the main page where you choose 'Resultservice' on the left Menu-Box.

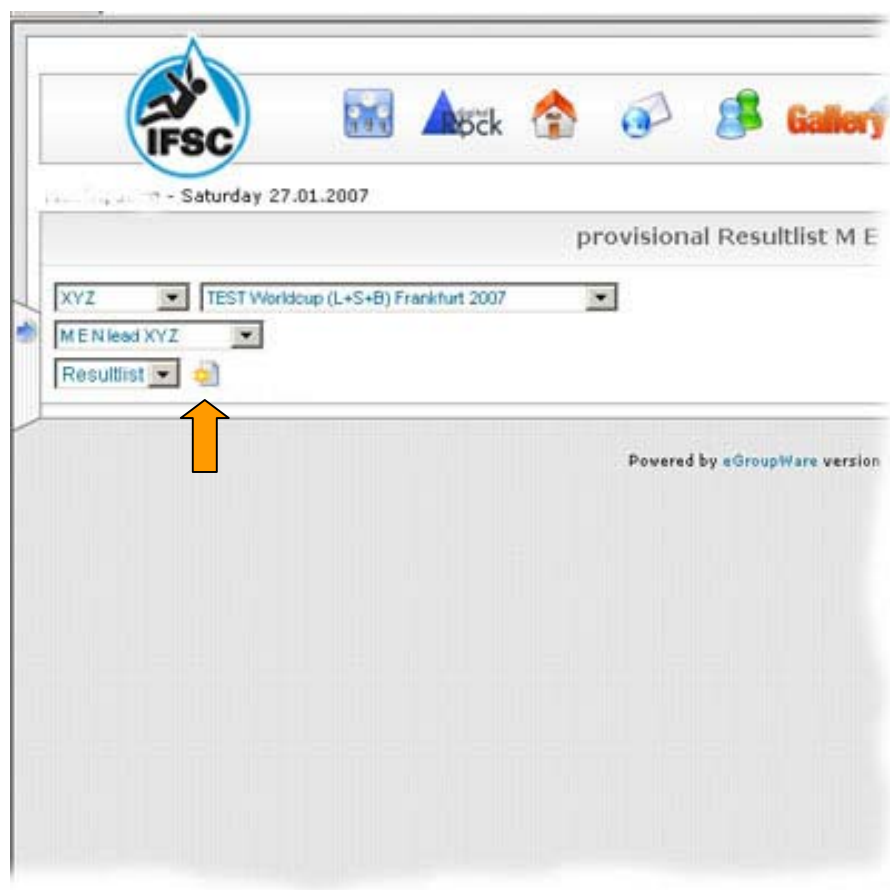

Now select your current competition:

and then the category.

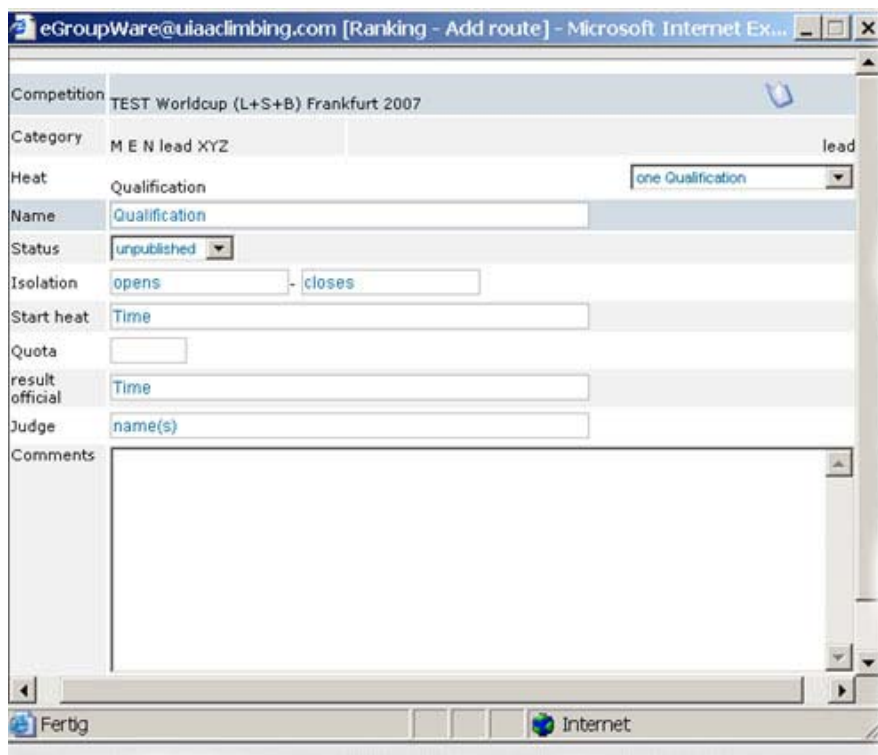

A screen like this is displayed:

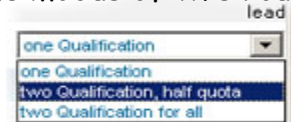

You must now create your first route for this competition (eg Qualification) by clicking on the 'Add new route' icon

The window with the route data / information appears.

Now you can enter all necessary information for this route like the name (maybe " $\frac{1}{4}$ -Final"), times and judges' names, the quota for qualifiers, the modus of this round like

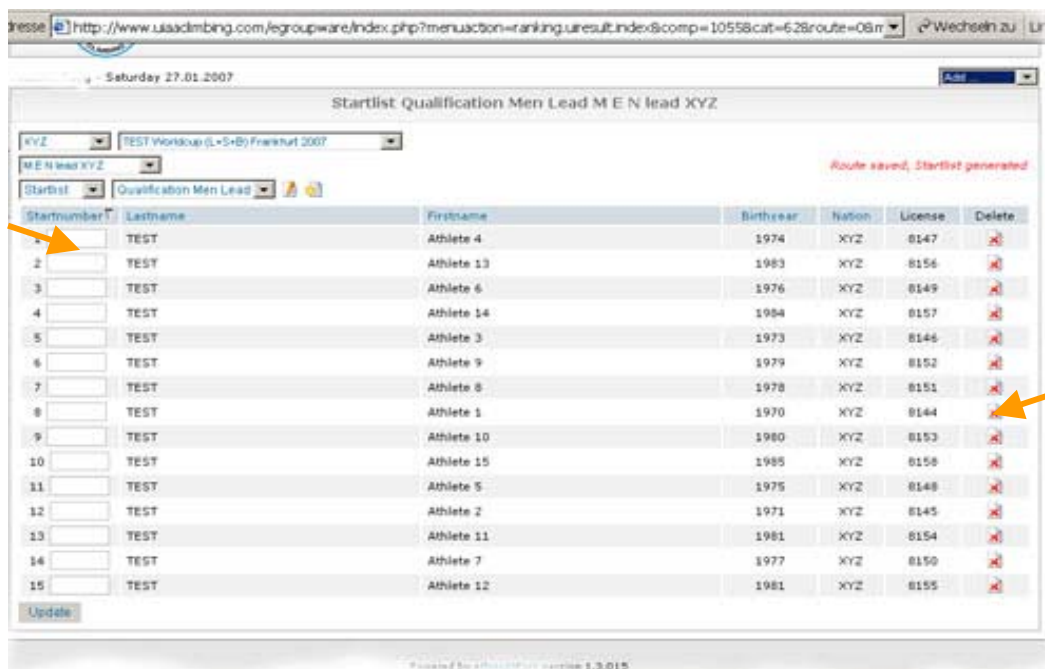

The current status as e.g. startlist (to display it on the internet isfc-climbing.org)

And later when the status is changed to 'result official', the release-time. When finished, you must click on the 'Save' button on the left bottom of the window.

The startlist is produced automatically from the registration of the climbers and according to the procedures in the rules (e.g. WR-reversed order, quotas on split-routes, randomisation of ex-aquos etc.). According to Wim Verhoeven, the startlist of the qualification gets created AFTER the isolation for the qualification is closed, not earlier! The new rules ensure athletes can estimate their start-place, by their position in the ranking. You can remove or register new athletes via the registration.

You'll find the main window with the current startlist with all pre-registered athletes and the possibility to enter optional starting-numbers and delete competitors that have not shown up after isolation closed (if you generate the startlist before the isolation closed).

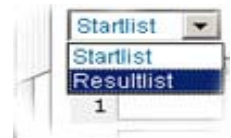

Startnumber	Lastname	Firstname	Birthyear	Nation	License	Delete

14	TEST	Athlete 7	1977	XYZ	8150
15	TEST	Athlete 12	1981	XYZ	8155

Make sure you click the 'Update' button after the changes to save your data and have the list up to date on the internet (isfc-climbing.org).

Be careful with deleted climbers, they can only be re-entered via registration.

To start entering results, change the dropdownbox to 'Resultlist'.

And find the startlist again (now called "resultlist") with the possibility to enter heights and supplements (+,-,top) - analog for speed and boulder

Make sure to save your entries with 'Update'.

You can enter the data during the heat and even see a provisional intermediate-results on the internet by updating directly after a competitor has finished her/his attempt.

For easier inserting the results you can switch the resultlist to be ordered by the startnumbers by clicking on the head of culomn startnumber.

After the heat/route is finished and all results are checked, you release the result as official in the route-window. Click on 'Edit this route'

Then enter the release-time and set the status to 'result official'. Exit via the 'Save' button.

To make changes afterwards (e.g. in the case of a complaint), you must again edit this route and set the status back to 'Startlist'. (click 'Save') Then you can access the result via 'Resultlist' as shown above.

To print lists you simply use the printer function of your browser, but in an adjusted format (no browser -frames, just the plain list with the IFSC-Logo).

You can only print what you have selected in your window.

So if the dropdownbox is set to 'Startlist' the displayed startlist will be printed.

You can print provisional result-lists during the heat (with the printed remark 'provisional') and the official result after releasing it.

For all succeeding heats / routes you work in the similar way.

Click on 'Add a new route' and enter the necessary data. Depending on the settings of the previous heat and the kind of competition, there are some of the settings already done by default.

In a process similar to the Lead Competition, you will have to create the heats/routes via 'Add new route' (set quotas etc) and enter the results in 'Resultlist'.
Then release the result (set the status of this route to 'result official') and create the succeeding heats/routes. At the end of the competition (or each categorie) set the general result to 'result official' and import the result into the ranking.

Bouldering Competitions

Make sure that you set the number of boulders right in the route-window.

(When you 'Add a new route' to create qualification and finals)

Entering the results will look like

There is a column for each problem and two tick-boxes for each competitor.

The upper one is for the attempts to reach the Top, the lower to reach the Bonus.

The sum of the competitors' attempts will be calculated automatically after clicking on the 'Update' button.

Make sure that you release the result (set the status of this route to 'result official') and create the succeeding heats/routes. At the end of the competition (or each categorie) set the general result to 'result official' and import the result into the ranking.

If you have problems with the internetconnection you can download each start- or resultlist as a csv-file (this can be imported and exported via Excel). Insert the results via Excel and Upload the result afterwards into the resultservice.

If you want to import the resultlist afterwards into the resultservice you should not change any of the fields (e.g. name, id, ...) besides the result and place of this heat!!! The system will prove if everything's correct and let you import the result or tell's you if something's wrong with it.

In conclusion,

We would appreciate any feedback on the system.

You are cordially invited to test on <http://www.ifsc-climbing.org/egroupware> as much as you can.
